

FRENCH CONTINUE NIBBLING AS HUNS PREPARE FOR NEXT BIG WEST FRONT OFFENSIVE

Important Positions Taken by Allies on Front of Two Miles Where Gains Were Made Last Week; Teuton Airmen Busy and Allied Fliers Give Germans Plenty to Think About.

RUSSIAN SITUATION REMAINS QUITE CHAOTIC

By Associated Press.

PARIS, July 9.—French troops early this morning attacked the German lines on a front of about two and a half miles west of Amiens, on the front between Montdidier and the Oise, penetrating the enemy's position and realizing an advance of a mile at certain points, the war office announced today.

The Germans' counter attack upon the French lines at the Loges farm in the area of this advance was repulsed, the French entirely maintaining their gains. Prisoners were taken to the number of 450, including 14 officers. In the Longpont region east of the Retz forest the French increased their gains of yesterday and took additional prisoners.

French troops again have been successful in a resumption of the "nibbling" tactics which the Allied command has followed. While the Germans prepare for a new blow the fighting activity on the western front, however, still is much localized.

Important positions on a front of two miles to a depth of two-thirds of a mile and 350 prisoners were taken by the French in their latest effort in the region of Longpont, northeast of Villers-Cotteret. The sector on which the gain was made is just south of where the French last week made important local gains in the region of St. Pierre Aigle and northward for six miles toward the Aisne.

German aerial activity has increased in the past few days and it is probable the airmen are making ready for the next onslaught. The German artillery fire has increased above normal only on certain sectors.

Entente airmen are keeping up an active bombardment of the area behind the German lines. British fliers have invaded Germany and dropped bombs on Kaiserlautern, east of Metz, and on Luxembourg.

Patrol activity and local operations are increasing in number on the Italian mountain front. On the lower Piave the Austrians, it is estimated, lost 30,000 men in killed, wounded and prisoners in the action last week in which they were driven back across the river, relieving somewhat the pressure against Venice. In western Albania French and Italian troops are withstanding strong counter attacks by the Austrians.

Various reports of happenings in Russia in connection with the murder of German Ambassador von Mirbach lack official confirmation. Germany, apparently, has not yet acted. An advance toward Moscow has not been reported although the German army have had large forces of troops near Smolensk, 250 miles west of Moscow.

OFFENSIVE IN ALBANIA

MAKE RAPID GAINS.

ROME, July 9.—The Allied offensive in Albania is continuing, the war office announced today. New progress has been made along the left wing on the Adriatic coast the land forces being assisted by British monitors.

The Italian infantry captured the town of Eleri and took important heights. More than 1,500 prisoners were taken in the advance.

Italian cavalry flanked the Malakstra ridge, north of the lower Vozza, between the western slope of the ridge and the Adriatic, getting alongside into the Austrian rear, destroyed bridges over the Semia river to the north.

VIENNA ADMITS LOSSES

IN ALBANIAN DRIVE.

VIENNA, via London, July 9.—The Entente pressure against the Austrian line in Albania is being continued by forces advancing across the river Vozza, according to today's war office announcement. A gain of ground by the French along the upper Semia is also reported. Fighting also is taking place in the interior southwest of Terat.

BRITISH RAID BRINGS

FEW PRISONERS.

LONDON, July 9.—Raiding operations carried out last night by British troops in the region east of Arras netted a few prisoners, the war office announced today.

South of the Somme river the German artillery has been displaying activity in bombarding the positions recaptured by British forces there.

UNCLE SAM'S NAVAL TROOP ESCORTS MAKE GOOD ENTERTAINERS

"Visitors" Did Not Tarry Long, Says 319th Boy's Letter, Referring Presumably to U-Boats.

The 319th Infantry encountered submarines on its way to France, a letter from Ralph F. Silger, former Courier employee, indicates. In the letter he speaks of "visitors" and of the fact that "they did not make a long call." His letter is interesting otherwise. In part it reads:

"We are safe in France after a wonderful voyage. We had all kinds of weather—calm weather, rough weather and rougher weather. When we started it was fine. I proceeded to get seasick and was sick for a couple of days. Then I commenced to get better and was congratulating myself on being a pretty good sailor when we ran into some rough weather, or the weather into us, I don't know which. But which ever it was it surely made me sick again. When you get seasick and feel like I did you don't care if a hole flock of subs comes. When the rough weather was at its best a position at the rail was at a premium. I got my position early but that did not make me feel any better.

"I would like to tell you about some of the things that I saw but I am not permitted to do so. We had some visitors but they did not make a long call. We were good entertainers, you can bet.

"This is a pretty nice place and the people that we see treat us finely. We have to get our money changed into French money and it is laughable to see some of the fellows trying to buy something. I know about all the different pieces and can get along pretty well. A franc is about 20 cents. We immediately called a half franc 'Mike' and a half 'Mike' a 'John'. Five centimes is the same as one of our pennies. (Continued on Page Two.)

ROAD BOND ISSUE

In Being Fought by the State Grange, York on Amendment in November.

The constitutional amendment permitting the state to sell $50,000,000 bonds to build roads will be voted on this year in Pennsylvania. A determined fight to defeat the amendment has been launched by the State Grange. The leading opposition contention is that the state should not go into the bond market at this time with an issue of $50,000,000 and become a competitor of the federal government, which is raising war finances by the sale of securities.

There is doubt expressed if the federal government would sanction a bond sale by the state. Unless this sanction could be secured from the federal board no sale would be possible.

The bond issue amendment was defeated in 1913, but the resolution has since been favorably voted on in two sessions of the legislature, and, five years having elapsed, it now legally comes before the voters again.

HANG TRAFFIC SIGNS

Big Posters Tell Autoists Not to Pass Car Being Loaded.

Following a suggestion of M. B. Pryce, superintendent of the department of public safety, the West Penn Railways company this morning hung two signs over West Crawford avenue in front of the station, warning automobile drivers not to pass cars while they were being loaded or unloaded. It is a violation of the traffic law to pass a car when passengers are getting on and off, and many motorists here have been driving through the crowds.

The signs are a bright yellow with black letters, bearing the inscription, "Do Not Drive by Cars While Unloading or Loading Passengers." Mr. Pryce this morning said: "We do not want to have to arrest anyone, but this driving through the crowds boarding cars must be stopped."

AUTO STRIKES BUGGY

Bertha Coughenour Hurt in Pittsburg Street Collision.

Bertha Coughenour of the Narrows, was slightly injured last night when the buggy she was driving was caught between an automobile driven by Miss Bessie Iser and the machine of County Commissioner Logan Rush, which was standing by the curb in North Pittsburg street. The accident occurred about 8:30 o'clock. Miss Iser was arrested by Cornerman Rondino, but was released by Mayor Duggan this morning. The automobile, which was left as a forfeit, was reclaimed.

The accident occurred when the buggy going north in the street drove around the Rush car. Following too closely on the vehicle Miss Iser was unable to stop her machine before it crashed into the side of the buggy. She said her brakes did not hold.

Job Jumpers Lose Classification.

COUNCIL MOVES TO HAVE OFFICE OF SEALER VACATED

Written Opinion on Authority to Oust J. S. Bryner is Requested.

PROBATIONER ALSO TO GO

Tenure of Miss Anne White Will be Terminated August 1 for Purpose of Reducing Expenses; Motor Truck for Street Use is Ordered.

As was forecasted in The Courier yesterday city council last night took preliminary steps toward having the office of city sealer of weights and measures, held by J. S. Bryner, abolished as a means of reducing the operating expenses of the city. It was agreed that Councilman Roy W. Hoover, superintendent of accounts and finance, shall lay the matter before the city solicitor and secure a written opinion on the authority of council to vacate the position.

The matter was brought to the fore in connection with the adoption of a resolution discontinuing the position of probation officer, filled by Miss Anne White, after August 1, this also as a means of reducing expenses. It was agreed that the officer is not a necessity at this time.

"If the probation officer is not a necessity neither is the sealer of weights and measures," declared Councilman C. W. Utta.

"I agree with you," said Councilman Hoover.

There was sentiment in favor of immediate action toward declaring the office vacant, but Mayor John Duggan counseled delay so that the matter might be laid before the solicitor.

The purchase of a Clydesdale truck from the Connellsville Garage company for $3,775 for street use was authorized. Eventually it is the intention to entirely supplant horse-drawn wagons with the motor propelled vehicle. Couplings for using it to pull the sprinkler and the street sweeper will be provided.

Purchasing Agent Hoover was directed to secure bids for the construction of a concrete arch under the East Park viaduct where a fill is being made. J. E. Hoenisch, of the city engineer's office, submitted a plan for the arch.

The purchase of 13,274 face brick for the city building under the Crawford avenue bridge at $17.50 per thousand, was authorized, together with 100 feet of 2x4 wall plates, 100 feet of 2x6 I-beam plates, 550 square feet of roofing and 550 feet of sheathing, and lime and cement as needed. The estimated cost of all of the supplies was $391. Cast-off street brick are to be used for the interior of the wall.

Lyman S. Pope of East Crawford avenue having neglected to comply with an order of council to remove an obstruction from Balesley alley, the matter was referred to the solicitor.

Mayor Duggan reported that the county is prepared to pay its share of the cost of paving Isabelle road. Council will next take up with Connellsville township the matter of the payment of the township's share of this expense which Supervisor Lloyd J. Stillwagon informed members would be paid as soon as the county had made settlement.

Dr. Utta's report on the financial end of garbage collection "showed that the system is about on a self-sustaining basis. The income now is around $300 a month, he said. It was better last month than at any time yet and would have been improved still more if it had not been necessary to hire a truck. Expenses have been reduced $200 a month, he said, by cutting two men from the force.

Fire losses in the city for the six months ending July 30 amounted to $5,235, Superintendent M. B. Pryce of the Department of Public Safety reported. There were 53 alarms, he said.

Council will meet again on July 22.

SINGER ROBBED

Miss Margie Munro, Who Sang Here in Chautauqua, Loses $700.

The broken trunk, with lingerie and other articles scattered about, was found some distance from the station along the tracks. The company was on its way to Fairmont.

LICENSE OF HOTEL WITH WOMAN BAR TENDER REVOKED

August Spelker, Mount Pleasant, Loses Right to Sell Liquor for Employing Mrs. Schacate.

ORDENSBURG, July 9.—At the conclusion of the hearing of the petition charging August Spelker, of Mount Pleasant, with employing Mrs. Rose Schacate, as bar maid in his hotel, Judge A. D. McConnell yesterday revoked Mr. Spelker's license to sell liquors during the year at his bar. County Detective Paul L. Feighner, the prosecutor, testified that he had visited Spelker's hotel in Mount Pleasant June 19 last, and found Mrs. Rose Schacate tending bar. John Kelly, H. B. Thurston, Alex. Parfitt, J. S. Sisley, John Berryhill and others testified to having seen Mrs. Schacate tending bar on June 17, 18 and 19. Some of the witnesses testified they had been served with beer or other liquors by Mrs. Schacate. Most of them testified under cross-examination that they had seen her husband, John Schacate, a crippled man, about the bar.

At the conclusion of this testimony, H. E. Marker, of counsel for Mr. Spelker, moved that the charges be quashed on the grounds that the evidence produced was insufficient to make out a case. District Attorney N. A. Cort replied, citing three or four rulings made by Philadelphia, and the Superior courts in parallel cases that came before those tribunals for adjudication. The defense set up that Mr. Spelker had contracted with John Schacate to tend bar and admitted that Mrs. Schacate was to "wash glasses, polish the bar and assist her crippled husband."

The court cited several higher court rulings as well as reviewing the liquor license acts of 1878 and 1887, declaring that the language was such that it prescribed a revocation of the license.

A HEAVY DEMAND

Is Made on the Surgical Dressings Workers in Connellsville.

Special allotments of surgical dressings having been made, part to be completed by August 1, and part by September, which, together with the regular monthly allotments, will require unusual application and industry on part of the workers in the Connellsville branch of the Red Cross. The quantity of work to be turned out under these allotments exceeds that of any previous period, making it necessary for every worker, and many new ones, to give all the time they can possibly spare in order to provide for the growing needs of the Army as our part in the war becomes more important.

The surgical dressings classes meet every afternoon, Monday evening and Thursday morning. These classes have not failed to fill all previous allotments, but the quantity has never before been quite so great as now. The attendance of every worker is being urged so that Connellsville may keep its record in both quantity and quality of its Red Cross products.

The Fayette county organization of the Slovak League of America has opened a press bureau in Uniontown and is keeping the public informed on the activities of the Czecho-Slovak forces in France, Italy and Russia, also of the Slovaks in the United States. The first communication to The Courier reads:

"Czecho-Slovaks fought shoulder to shoulder with Italians and captured at Val Bella hill. One thousand five hundred Slovaks fell and 2,000 were captured. Three hundred Czecho-Slovaks captured by the Austrians were immediately hanged.

"Col. Kurban with the Czecho-Slovak army in Russia after getting news of the hanging of the 300 prisoners enabled Prof. Masaryk in Washington that he will have the 300,000 Austro-German captives in his possession hanged unless the Austrians treat the Czecho-Slovak prisoners as prisoners of war. Ten Huns to every Slovak already have been shot.

"Czecho-Slovak troops have complete control of Vladivostok, a Pacific port of Russia. American ships have already landed and are helping to guard the stores there. Two thousand five hundred miles of the Russian railroad are also in the hands of the Czecho-Slovaks. Many Russian peasants are now joining the Czecho-Slovaks."

The collections in the district exceeded any previous year and were the second largest of all the revenue districts in the United States, the amount being $89,000,000 greater than that collected by the other three districts of Pennsylvania. ## CITATIONS ISSUED

On J. V. Thompson for Accounting of Several Trusteeships.

Three citations against J. V. Thompson, were issued in the Fayette County Orphans' Court yesterday to show cause why he should not file an account and be removed from the trusteeship of the estates of Joseph White, Emma C. Lenhart and John A. Nichols, which are now in his hands.

In the citations it is alleged that Thompson failed to file any accounts in the estates and that moneys given him in trust are in grave jeopardy. It is also alleged that Thompson allowed the funds of the estate to become intermingled with his own holdings.

CAN DEPEND UPON THE COKE REGION.

The publication of the list of subscriptions made to the second Red Cross War fund by the coke and coke companies and their employees shows both the importance of these factors and their patriotic interest in all the measures intended to move the war program forward with gathering momentum and force. Without the very material help from these sources Fayette county would have had much less reason to be proud of the contribution to its credit in behalf of a more complete equipment of the Red Cross to carry on its great work of mercy during the war.

A part of the $152,792.27 was made up of subscriptions from the operating companies ranging in amounts from $50.00 all the way up to an ascending scale to $35,000, the latter given by the H. C. Frick Coke company, the largest operator. In making these there was no more spirit of rivalry or desire to surpass or outdo a neighbor than there was among the employees of the several plants whose group subscriptions ranged throughout another ascending scale from $49.00 to $5,215.92, the latter given by the employees of the Consolidated Coke company. Each donor, whether employer or employee, was prompted by the same motive—that of wishing to help bring relief to the suffering and comfort to the distressed. In the Liberty Bond and War Savings Stamp campaigns the element of self interest was present in a degree, even though loaning money to the government was in itself a patriotic action.
In the Red Cross campaign it was well understood that an absolute gift was being made, hence all selfishness was forgotten in the bigger purpose of rendering service without hope of expectation of material reward.

In these particulars the coke companies and their employees differed in no wise from other subscribers to the Red Cross fund. The noteworthy feature of the coke works subscriptions was that they were drawn from such a large number of foreign peoples among whom there were, no doubt, many who were native to countries now at war with the United States. It has been popularly supposed that many of the coke workers have had but vague ideas of the war situation as well as of the needs of such agencies as the Red Cross. The list of subscriptions should serve to disabuse the public mind of that notion or at least give proof that the employers and employees of the coke region are no less ready to respond to appeals for worthy and deserving causes than they are quick to see the advantages of a good investment, like Liberty Bonds.

Remembering this it can safely be said that on any call made upon the coke region during the war, the patriotic, substantial, willing and unselfish assistance of the employers and employees can at all times be depended upon. Just as surely can the confidence be placed in the fact that the coke region is no less ready to respond to appeals for worthy and deserving
causes than they are quick to see the advantages of a good investment, like Liberty Bonds.

WHAT OF COAL MINING AS PRO-DUCTIVE EMPLOYMENT?

The public generally has had great admiration for the able manner in which Provost Marshal General Crowder has administered the draft and confidence in his ability and fairness in rendering decision on disputed points. With very few exceptions there has been only temporary cases the complaint, doubtful issues becoming clear with a few words of explanation.

The mining industry will be unable to recruit the recent rail-

Admits Guilt of Her Crime Against Civilization Part II.

Von Jagow's Admissions.
And finally Herr von Jagow, Ger-man's foreign minister, at the outbreak of the war, in replying to Prince Lichnowsky's evidence, makes this startling admission, among others: "I by no means share the opinion prevalent among us today that England laid all the mines for the outbreak of the war; on the contrary, I believe in Sir Edward Grey's love of peace and in his earnest wish ing which declares actors and motion picture producers are engaged in productive employment with the attitude of General Crowder upon the question of giving mine workers a deferred classification. From the outset, he has adhered to the ruling that men engaged in the production of coal and coke can not be granted deferred classification as a class, thereby placing upon the local boards, the whole responsibility of determining the degree of liability for service of the registrants, no matter what their occupation.

Local boards generally having interpreted their function to be to provide as many men for military service as are physically fit, and in the absence of specific directions to give preference to any industrial classification, particularly as may relate to mining and the manufacture of coke, have declared to making wholesale deferred classification of coal and coke employees. In consequence the mining industry continues to supply its full quota on the calls to service and the number of workers is thereby being continually depleted.

If the production of moving pictures has become so necessary an industry that men of military age engaged in it are entitled to deferred classification, what of the men who are producing the fuel essential to the manufacture and transportation of war munitions and supplies?

Our people, and certainly not our soldiers in the training camps, should not be denied the recreation afforded by the presentation of moving pictures, but few will contend that this is more vital in its relation to winning the war than the increased production of coal and coke, upon which all industries, even that of making moving pictures, more or less directly depends. To the degree that the fuel supply of the country falls short of the prodigious requirements just so much will the war program fall short of functioning properly. Both because of lack of number and the lack of closer application among those employed in the mines and on the coke yards, very material increase in production is impossible. To further curtail the strength of the plant forces by drafting men to the military service must of necessity still further imperil the fuel situation. Mine operators have long appreciated the increasing difficulties of the situation but thus far they have been powerless to affect any change in the rulings of Provost Marshal General Crowder.

In the anthracite and central Pennsylvania regions considerable activity has been in progress in the direction of an attempt to secure a deferred classification for miners. The movement has the sanction of Chief of the Department of Mines, Butlin, and the anthracite coal commission. In consequence a conference is to be held at Wilkes-Barre on July 16 with Major William G. Murdock, state draft officer, with view to considering the question.

Connellsville region operators have an interest in this question second only to that of the operators in the central and eastern mining fields. While the Wilkes-Barre conference may be harbored of immediate results, it would more certainly tend to become the starting point of an amendment in draft rules if every mining section in them had representation in the conference. The Connellsville region should have some of its leaders in attendance. They can very properly take part in the conference and without fear that odium will rest upon them for advocating at least temporary exemption from military duty of men who, for the next six months or a year, can render even better service in the mining plants of Pennsylvania than by planting mines on the battlefields of Europe.

The change in the system of collecting for garbage removal is a responsible one. Householders are entitled to service when they pay for it and all the service such payment represents.

The game warden apparently have need to equip themselves with ammunition trains to carry away the ordnance stores they are discovering in the homes of the unnaturalized aliens.

Abolishing useless offices seems to be the order in council as well as the order of council.

In addition to being the first day of the week, Sunday, in combination with originally worthless motor drivers, continues to be first aid to the undertaker.

If the fuel situation becomes much more acute we may expect coal to become a drug store commodity procurable only on prescription.

Would Create Two Vacancies.

New York Times.
Mr. Ford is a man of many qualities, but there are many men of lovable qualities who are not qualified for the United States Senate, and Mr.
Ford is disqualified by possessing a bad and undisciplined mind. How well he might apply himself to the study, would leave government and politics a sealed book to him all his days. His entrance into the Senate would create a vacancy both in the Senate and in the automobile business, and from the latter Mr. Ford cannot be spared.

to arrive at an agreement with us.
Neither was the war popular with the English people. Belgium had to serve as a battle field." Von Jagow even admits that war might have been averted by an international conference on the Serbian situation. "We could not agree," he says,
"to the English proposal of a conference of ambassadors, for it would doubtless have led to a serious diplomatic defeat. For Italy, too, was pro-Serb, and with her Balkan interests, stood rather opposed to Austria." That is to say, Von Jagow admits that war was chosen by Germany as an alternative to an international conference, which would have declared the Austrian demands on Serbia unjust even in the eyes of Italy, the ally of Austria and of Germany.

Dr. Muhlon's Conscience.

With Dr. Muhlon it was evidently a case of conscience. When the war began he resigned his position as a director of Krupp's Works, at Essen, and retired to his estate in Switzerland, near Berne. There he lived a retired life. After a time reports began to circulate of statements which he had made to visitors, and he was put under the surveillance of spies from the German embassy at Berne. Later, a member from the Socialist Party in the Reichstag visited him, and the German press reported that a retired Krupp official living in Switzerland "claimed to be in possession of certain secrets seriously compromising the honor of the German government in the matter of the responsibility for the war." The newspapers began to hint that this official was out of his mind. Dr.
Muhlon's statements were then published, either as a vindication of him or as an exposure which should aid the democratic revolution in Germany.

With Prince Lichnowsky it is a different matter. He is a nobleman of semi-royal lineage, "the sixth prince of the principedom of Gratz in Austria and Kuchina in Prussia." His grandfather was one of Beethoven's patrons. Beethoven wrote many of his works in the Lichnowsky castle at Gratz, where the piano that he used is still preserved, and the present prince, Karl Max Lichnowsky, has carried on the tradition of culture and liberalism which he inherited from his family. He was a brother officer of the present Kaiser in the Life Guard Hussars of Potsdam, but after a brief army career he entered the diplomatic service, and held important posts in Stockholm, Constantinople, Bucharest, and Vienna.
He retired in 1904, being out of sympathy with the Junker atmosphere of the court. He was not a Prussian, nor even a German. His family was Bohemian, and his mind has never been militaristic.

To his "great surprise," as he says, he was offered the post of German ambassador to London in October, 1912, after he had passed eight years "among fax and turnips, on horseback and in his meadows," amusing his leisure with reading and with writing occasional political articles.
"I do not know," he says, "to whom my appointment was due—at all events, not to His Majesty, as I did not belong to his immediate set, although he was always gracious to me.
I believe that they agreed on me because no other candidate was available."

Lichnowsky Made a Scapegoat.

When, in spite of his efforts to prevent it, England was involved in war against Germany, he returned to Berlin and saw, as he says, that he was "to be made the scapegoat for the catastrophe which our government had brought down on us, despite my advice and warning. It was deliberately given out from official quarters, that I had let Sir Edward Grey "hoodwink me." He retired to Gratz, smarting with this injustice, and there he prepared a memoir, called "My Mission in London," for the private information of his kinsmen and his intimate political friends.

Of this memoir he had five or six typewritten copies made. One he sent to Herr Ballin, the head of the Hamburg-American Line; a second to Herr von Gwinner, the head of the Deutsche Bank; and a third to Herr Theodor Wolff, editor of the Radical-Democratic newspaper, the Berliner Tageblatt. A fourth copy went to a friend, an officer attached to the political department of the German General Staff. This officer appears to have manifested it on his own responsibility and sent copies to various state officials and politicians. He did that, Herr Theodor Wolff says, because, "he felt the longing to serve the dictates of peace with complete devotion, and he surrendered himself to a pacifism which is absolutely incompatible with a military uniform." He confessed to Herr Wolff what he had done. "It was impossible," the editor says, "to convince him by any logic or on any grounds of reason that his action was wrong, senseless, or harmful. He was a Marquis Posa, or still more, a Horatius Cocles, who, out of love for Rome or for mankind, sprang into the abyss."

One of his copies of the memoir reached the socialist newspaper Politken in Stockholm and was published, piecemeal. The German press took it up. The Reichstag debated it.
Lichnowsky was deprived of his diplomatic rank, forbidden to write for publications, and virtually imprisoned in his home in Gratz. The newspapers demanded that he be court-martialed. A typical letter, printed in the semi-official Cologne Gazette, demanded that he "be held up to public contempt ruthlessly." The writer argued: "What will our thousands of war cripples say when this affair is brought to their outraged notice? Have these men joyfully sacrificed their health only to be told at this stage of the war, by a Prince Lichnowsky that it was not necessary?"

WORTH TWO WEEKS TRAINING

Tanlac Quickly and Surely Put H. Mason, Pugilist, in Pink of Condition.

"Tanlac is worth almost as much to me as two weeks' hard training," said H. Mason, athlete and pugilist, of 1306 State street, Erie, Pa.

"I suffered from stomach trouble and a catarrhal affection, the latter having been brought about by my contracting cold after a ten-round bout at the Harlem Athletic club last Thanksgiving afternoon.

"It seemed as though my nutrition was retarded and my strength was leaving me rapidly.

"I would awaken at night from cold sweats.

"I could not eat with any satisfaction, and as a consequence my stomach went completely back on me.

"I bought some of this new medicine, Tanlac, because a friend told me about it, and because he recommended it to me so highly.

"Since using Tanlac my stomach has resumed its normal condition. I eat fine and sleep well. I am as strong as ever; in fact, I feel like I am fit for the battle of my life.

"This Tanlac is certainly a great strength giver. It beats anything I have ever seen. I am going to keep the medicine around handy to take in the future. You certainly can bet on that."

Tanlac is now sold here by the Connellsville Drug Co.
Tanlac can also be secured in Dun-

Cliff Swallow's Revenge.

L. M. Hollingsworth tells a story of the way a cliff swallow treated a blue bird who had stolen its nest:

"While making my home with grandmother, an uncle told me the following incident in the life of the cliff swallows. One spring, on returning to their old home under the eaves, a pair of the swallows found their nest already in possession of a pair of earlier blue birds. They tried in vain to drive them out. At last they called a council of war in which the whole company joined. After reaching a decision, they formed a constant line of swallows from the horse pond to the nest, each carrying a little pellet of mud. Each one built his pellet into the mouth of the nest until they had the blue bird held the nest walled up within it. The nest afterward became dislodged and fell with the carcass of the blue bird still within it. The bird had died in its prison."

Meat Must Be Sold

Fresh meat is perishable. It must be sold within about two weeks for whatever it will bring.

A certain amount of beef is frozen for foreign shipment, but domestic markets demand fresh, chilled, unfrozen beef.

Swift & Company cannot increase prices by withholding meat, because it will not keep fresh and salable for more than a few days after it reaches the market.

Swift & Company cannot tell at the time of purchasing cattle, what price fresh meat will bring when put on sale. If between purchase and sale, market conditions change, the price of meat must also change.

The Food Administration limits our profit to 9 per cent on capital invested in the meat departments. This is about 2 cents per dollar of sales. No profit is guaranteed, and the risk of loss is not eliminated.

As a matter of fact, meat is often sold at a loss because of the need of selling it before it spoils.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE HILLCREST MYSTERY"—In which Irene Castle, known as the best dressed woman in America, is appearing in the leading role, is being shown today. Everyone likes stories that are full of action and thrills. Such a story is that of "The Hillcrest Mystery." It is tremendously exciting, and there is a mystery in it which has you guessing from start to finish. The story has a touch of color from the great war, in which Mrs. Castle's aviator husband, Vernon Castle, lost his life. The picture shows Mrs. Castle in a most appealing role, which is said to be the best in which she has ever appeared. Much attention has been paid to the settings of the picture. In the cast with Mrs. Castle are Ralph Bellard, W. H. Colman and Wyndham Standing. A selected comedy is included. Tomorrow, Elia Hall and Frisella Dean will be started in "Which Woman?" a Bluebird attraction in five reels, adapted to the screen from Evelyn Campbell's novelette. Thursday, Ethel Clayton, the captivating screen star, supported by Rockcliffe Fellows, will be seen in "The Man Hunt," a strikingly pleasing new world feature, which tells the efficient method by which a modern girl secures for her husband the man she has picked out as being most fitted for the place. Friday and Saturday, Mary Garden, the "Cordwain" star, will be presented in "A Splendid Sinners," a powerful story, which depicts life as we see it today, and the locale ranges from New York and its environs to the battle front of France.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"SUNSHINE NAN"—A story of an ambitious little, slum-girl who rises to become the wife of a successful inventor, is cleverly portrayed by Ann Pennington in her latest Paramount picture, "Sunshine Nan," at the Orpheum theatre tomorrow. Of course there were tremendous obstacles in the way of this transformation, such as an enforced stay in a girls' reformatory for a "crime" she had never committed, and the fighting of her way up afterwards as an office girl and stenographer. How she turned all this to good account and lent a helping hand to many of her old friends from the "alley" has been skillfully depicted by Miss Pennington. Director Charles Giblin produced the picture from a scenario by Eve Unsell. Alice Hegan Rice, the original author, will be remembered as having written "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Lovey Mary," "Mr. Opp," and others.

FORMER SQUARED-RING STARS NOW WEAR REGULATION JACKIE UNIFORM IN NAVY

Engaged in friendly sparring, while the third man referees, are from left to right: "Chicago" Tommy Murphy, the lightweight; Joe Bonds, heavyweight, and Joe Weiling, world's champion middleweight. Wearing regulation Jackie uniforms instead of the fighting togs of the squared circle that they are more accustomed to, these three former pugilistic stars are now serving Uncle Sam. At present they are on the Granite State waiting an opportunity to fight for Uncle Sam.

ARCADE THEATRE.

"THE MILLION DOLLAR BABIES" opened a week's engagement at the Arcade theatre yesterday and pleased a large house both afternoon and night. The "Count and the Girl" was well received, and the audience showed its appreciation of Miss Nina Belle's singing. Al Berger, as the farmer, makes a very funny character, and Lillian Raymond, as his daughter, wins her audience with her everlasting smile. The chorus is well deserving of its title as it is one of the best found in a tab show. They put over the singing and dancing numbers with a snap that pleases. Elaborate wardrobe and special scenery succeeds in making it a first class offering. Helen Holmes thrilled in her daring exploits. The show will be offered again today. Wednesday and Thursday will be a complete change of program, and on the screen will be seen the famous war serial, "The Women and the Web."

BASEBALL STORIES

The Cleveland amateur baseball association is made up of 67 clubs.

Charley Ebbets is hewing close to Hoover, as his outfield is now one-third wheat.

Casey Stengel was rated 100 per cent perfect when he was examined by draft board physicians.

Washington is playing baseball on Sunday, and the fans probably would appreciate baseball on week days, too.

Wilbert Robertson, chubby manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, appears to have lost considerable weight since last season.

New York A. C. will hold track, baseball and boxing tournaments for the soldiers and sailors stationed in the vicinity of the metropolis.

Sunday baseball in Washington is going to prove a financial boon to Clark Griffith. The Senators will probably make money this season.

St. Louis sport writers are heartless. One of them has said that as amateurs are exempt, Hendricks' Cardinals need not worry about the work or fight order.

Among the amazing features of baseball this year is that the umpire can make a rotten decision against the home team without risking his life as of old.

"Walters batting for Love," yelled the announcer in the fifth inning at the Polo grounds. "No; he's batting for money," insisted one of the wags in the stand.

Slowly but surely Bob Veach is climbing to a place among the headliners of swat in the American league. Veach started poorly but is hitting hard now.

GUNNER DEPEW

Albert N. Depew

EX-GUNNER AND CHIEF PETTY-OFFICER, U. S. NAVY
MEMBER OF THE FOREIGN LEGION OF FRANCE
CAPTAIN GUN TURRET, FRENCH BATTLESHIP CASSARD
WINNER OF THE CROIX DE GUERRE

(Copyright 1918, by Kelly and Brown Co., Through Special Arrangement With the George Mathews Adams Service)

By this time the Turks were making an attack, and all you could see to the front was one long line of smoke and spouting earth. Then our guns started and the noise was deafening. It was worse than in the turrets aboard ship during an engagement. My head rang for days after we left the Dardanelles.

The Turks were getting a better idea of our range now and the shells were falling pretty close to us, but finally we tore in with the 14-inch navies and ripped up three of their batteries. In the full that followed we made good time and reached our front line positions at Sedd-el-Bahr during the afternoon.

The next morning we made our first attack. I had had a bad night of it, thinking about Murray, and when the time came there never was a chap more glad to charge and get a chance at the enemy with the bayonet than I was.

We attacked according to a program. Time cards were issued to the officer of each section, so that we would work exactly with the barrage. To be ahead of, or behind the time card, would mean walking into our own barrage. The time of attack is called zero—that is, the minute when you leave the trench. Some of the Anzacs said it meant when your feet got the coldest, but I do not think they suffered very much with trouble in the feet—not when they were advancing, anyway.

The time card might read something like this: First wave, zero, advance, rapid walk, barrage 25 in 10 seconds, take first trench, 0.20, second wave, same as the first, pass first trench, 0.25, take second trench, 0.35. The third wave is ordered to take the third trench, and so on, for as many lines as the enemy is entrenched. The other waves might be instructed to occupy Hill 7, 12.05, or dig in behind rock 12.45. Here, zero is understood, the first figures standing for minutes and the others for seconds. It might take several hours to carry out the program, but everything is laid out to an exact schedule.

I was in the sixth line of the third wave of attack and zero was 4.30 a. m. Whistles were to be the signal for zero and we were to walk to the first line Turkish trench. As we came out our barrage fire would be bursting 50 yards ahead of us and would lift 25 yards every 10 seconds. Our stunt was to take advantage of it without walking into it.

No one man can see all of an attack which may extend over miles of ground, but during the three weeks I was in the trenches on the Gallipoli peninsula we made four grand attacks and many minor ones, so I know in a general way what they are like. Each wave is organized like the others. First come three lines of what you might call grenadiers though they are not picked for size as the old kings grenadiers used to be. They are deployed in skirmish formation, which means that every man is three yards from the next. They were armed only with grenades, but, you can take it from me, that is enough! Behind them come two lines, also in skirmish formation, and armed with machine guns and grenade rifles. The first men on the left carry machine guns, then come three rifle grenadiers, and then another machine gun and so on down the length of the line. After these come two lines of riflemen with fixed bayonets.

Then come the trench-cleaners, or moppers-up, as we call them. They were some gang, believe me I imagine a team of rugby players spread out in two lines—only with hundreds of men on the team instead of eleven, and each man a husky, capable of handling a baby grand piano single-handed. These fellows were armed with everything you could think of, and a whole lot more that you could not dream about in a nightmare. It used to remind me of a trial I saw in New York once, where the police had raided a yegmen's shop and had all their weapons in the courtroom as exhibits.

The moppers-up were heeled with sticks, clubs, shillelahs, black jacks, two-handed cleavers, axes, trench knives, pouldars, up-to-date tomahawks, brass knuckles, slung shots—anything that was ever invented for crushing a man with, I guess, except firearms. These knock-down drag-out artists follow the riflemen very closely. Their job was to take care of all the Turks who could not escape and would not surrender.

There are lots of men in any army who will not surrender, but I think probably there were more Turks of that gameness than men in most other armies. I have heard that it is a part of their religion that a man, if he dies fighting, goes to a very specially fancy heaven, with plenty to eat and smoke. And I suppose if he surrenders they believe he will be put in the black gang, stoking for eternity down below. It was awfully hot at the Dardanelles and I guess the Turks did not want it any hotter, for very few of them ever surrendered, and the trench cleaners had a lot to do. Their job is really important, for it is dangerous to have groups of the enemy alive and kicking around in their trenches after you have passed. Almost every prisoner we took was wounded.

The one thing I do not like to have people ask me is, "How does it feel to kill a man?" and I think the other boys feel the same way about it. It is not a thing you like to talk about, or think about either. But this time, at "V" beach when we got past the first and second Turk trenches and were at work on the third, I do not mind saying that I was glad whenever

Then I Would Stick Another One.

I slipped my bayonet into a Turk and more glad when I saw another one coming. I guess I saw red all right. Each time I thought, "Maybe you are the one who did poor old Murray." And I could see Murray as he looked when they took him down from the storehouse wall. Then I would stick another one.

The others from the Cassard were red-hot, too, and they went at the Turks in great style. There was nothing to complain about in the way they fought. But I wished that we had had a few more boys from the Foreign Legion with us. I think we would have gone clear on through to Constantinople.

But the Turks were not as bad as Fritz. They were just as good or better as fighters, and a whole lot whiter. Often, when we were frying in the trenches and not a drop of water was to be had, something would land on the ground near us and there would be a water bottle, full. Sometimes they almost bombarded us with bottles. Then, too, they would not fire on the Red Cross, as the Germans do, they would hold their fire many times when we were out picking up our wounded. Several times they dragged our wounded a close as they could to the barbed wire that we might find them easier.

After Murray died I got to thinking a lot more than I used to, and though I did not have any hunch exactly, still I felt as though I might get it, too, which was something I had never thought much about before. I used to think about my grandmother, too, when I had time, and about Brown. I used to wonder what Brown was doing and wish we were together. But I could remember my grandmother smiling and that helped some. I guess I was lonely, to tell the truth. I did not know the other garden very well and the only one left that I was really very friendly with got his soon afterward though not as bad as Murray. And then there was no one that I was really comfy with. That would not have bothered me at all before Murray died.

The other lad I spoke of as having been chummy with was Philippe Pierre. He was about eighteen and came from Bordeaux. He was a very cheerful fellow and he and Murray and I used to be together a lot. He felt almost as bad about Murray as I did, and you could see that it changed him a great deal, too. But he was still cheerful most of the time.

CHAPTER XIII

Limeys, Anzacs and Pollus

One night while we were expecting an attack, the word was passed down the line to have the wire cutters ready and to use bayonets only for the first part of the attack, for we were to try and take the first enemy trench by surprise. The first trench was only about eighty yards away. Our big guns opened up and at zero we climbed out and followed the curtain of fire too closely. It seemed to me.

But the barrage stopped too soon, as it does sometimes, and there were plenty of Turks left. We were half way across when they saw us, and they began banging away at us very hard. They pounded at us as we came on until we were given the order to retire, almost as we were on them—what was left of us.

As we turned and started back the Turks rushed out to counter attack us, the first of them busy with bombs. Then I tripped over something and rolled around a while and then saw it was Philippe Pierre. His left leg was dangling cloth and flesh and all shot away and the leg hanging to the rest of him by a shred. Two or three of our men who were on their way back to our trenches tripped over me as I tried to get up and then a shell exploded near by and I thought I had got it sure, but it was only the rocks thrown up by the explosion.

Finally I was able to stand up. So I slung my rifle over one shoulder and got Philippe Pierre up on the other, with his body from the waist up hanging over my back, so that I could hold his wounded leg on and started back. There was only one or two of our men left between the trenches. Our machine guns were at it hard and the Turks were firing and bombing at full speed.

I had not gone more than two or three paces when I came across another of our men, wounded in several places and groaning away at a great rate. Philippe Pierre was not saying a word, but the other chap did enough for the two of them. One wounded man was all I could manage, with my rifle and pack over the rough ground and the barbed wire I had to go through. So I told this fellow, whose name I cannot remember—I never did know him very well—that I would come back for him, and went on. I almost fell several times but managed to get through safely and rolled over our parapet with Philippe Pierre. They started the lad back in a stretcher right away. When I saw him again he gave me a little box as a souvenir, but I have lost it.

FOOD ADMINISTRATOR AGAIN SOUNDS CALL FOR PUBLIC TO CONSERVE SUGAR AND BEEF

Suggestions as to the saving of sugar and beef are contained in a circular issued by Howard Helms, federal food administrator for Pennsylvania.

For the conservation of sugar the administrator says:

"The householder may save sugar in many ways during the present emergency by substituting and by reducing greatly the amount previously used. Following are a few suggestions which anyone may follow:

"Use no ice or sherbets.

"Use milk desserts, custards and rice puddings sweetened with corn syrup.

"Use dried figs, dates and raisins in desserts, which add sweetening in themselves.

"If cake is made it should be 'dark cake,' made of molasses or syrup. Use no icing on cake.

"Have lead drinks, such as ice tea, sweetened while hot, so that all sugar dissolves and less may be used.

"In cooking fruit, sweeten after cooking and while hot rather than during the boiling process.

"Use corn syrup in cooking recipes necessitating sweetening by allowing one-half again as much corn syrup as sugar, that is, 1-2 cups of corn syrup if recipe calls for a cup of sugar.

"Use strained honey or maple syrup on cereals and griddle cakes.

"When eating raw fruits and berries, use less sugar as generally the proper flavor of these is lost by too much sweetening.

"Counsel the use of less sugar as a method of improving health, that too great a use of candy or sweets count for a great deal of poor health, especially on the part of children.

"Along the line of conservation of beef the administrator says:

"Use no more than 1-4 pounds of clear beef weekly or 1-2 pounds including the bone, per person in the household.

"The demands for beef for our Army and the Allied armies and their civil populations, for this summer, are beyond our present surplus; on the other hand, we have enough increased supply of pork this summer to permit economical expansion in its use. It will, therefore, be a direct service to our armies and the Allies if our people would in some degree substitute fresh pork, bacon, ham and sausage for beef products."

Smithfield.

SMITHFIELD, July 8.—Rev. Ralph Bell is on a two weeks' vacation, which he will spend with his children in Pittsburg and vicinity.

Rev. Delbert L. Johnson of Dravosburg, superintendent of the Home for the Aged Association of the Pittsburgh Methodist Episcopal conference, filled Rev. Bell's pulpit in the Methodist Episcopal church here Sunday morning.

Mrs. G. M. Grimm returned from an extended visit with relatives in Ohio. Mrs. Grimm has received a letter from the War Department telling of the arrival of J. A. Grimm, her son, in France. He had been in the hospital before he started over, was sick during the trip over and went into a hospital on his arrival, where he had an operation performed. "Jud" as we all knew him here, should never have been accepted for military service by Local Board No. 4 that passed him, but he was so anxious to get in that he concealed his physical condition from his examining physician and was passed.

A. J. Stewart, better known as Jack Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stewart of Smithfield, is here on furlough from a training camp in New York. He brought his prospective bride, a young lady from Pittsburg, some with him. The young woman being under age they were unable to procure a license here. They hired a motor vehicle from Black's livery and went to Cumberland Sunday, but found they could not procure a license until after Sunday midnight. They concluded to stay in Cumberland until after that time, which they did, and were married and returned here on the train Monday.

M. O'Neill visited Mr. and Mrs. E. R. O'Neill at New Salem, and Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Lynch at Fairbank, Sunday.

Mrs. B. O'Neill is visiting relatives at Point Marion and other points in the forks of Cheat river.

Mrs. A. J. Sutton and daughter, Mrs. Chester Wheat, left here Friday evening for Camp Dix, N. J., to visit Donald Sutton. Mrs. Sutton's son, who was recently transferred from a training camp at Little Rock, Ark., to Camp Dix.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS
President American Society for Thrift

During the next two months many millions of Americans will be taking their vacations, and it is hoped that in the interests of public economy these periods of idleness will be curtailed as much as possible.

A vacation may be looked upon as a good investment of time—a worthy example of thrift. But in the abnormal days of war when every bit of manpower that can be obtained should be made available, we should look on it as a patriotic duty—as an instance of patriotic thrift—to either eliminate our vacations entirely or cut them down very materially.

There are probably at least 40,000,000 people in the United States who normally take vacations running from one week to two months. It is not possible to make an accurate estimate of these figures, but even two weeks each for 40,000,000 people would be equal to the time of several hundred thousand citizens for a period of the whole year. Just at this time our nation can ill afford this loss of human energy.

We are crowding to the limit to get our soldiers over to the fighting front. Their places must be filled at home, and they must be supplied with food and clothing. Waste of time is just as bad as waste of food or any other material resource. It would be a fine example of patriotism for each person who had planned a vacation to voluntarily eliminate one week of it. The aggregate benefit of such action would mean much to our country in winning the war.

We are eliminating other forms of waste with an enthusiasm born of patriotic devotion. Why not eliminate the worst waste of all—waste of time?

The elimination of one week of our vacation would make possible the saving of several million dollars in railway fare, hotel bills and miscellaneous vacation expense. If this saving were placed in Liberty Bonds or Thrift Stamps our act of patriotism would be thus further shown.

This is not in any way a sweeping condemnation of vacations. The vacation is not to be considered as an act of thriftlessness. But our standards of today are not what they were two years ago nor what they will be when peace comes again.

The vacation is a good thing generally because it gives one a rest and change which prolongs life and adds to our efficiency. But the need of man power is so urgent in winning the war that there should be no let down. The machine of national activity must be kept running at top speed until the war is won, no matter what inconvenience it may cause to the individual.

The necessity of yesterday has become the luxury of today. The vacation is an example.
